"The Loft?" If they were a little less vague might help and it looks like a house party. Unless I knew exactly who and what would pass on this.

I think I knew a guy who's brother's neighbor's son's dentist's network administrator woke up in a bathtub full of ice at that place, with a big scar and a missing kidney. 😊 interesting that i can't reply directly to the original poster. the page is half-cocked. (at least in FF it is)

Anyone know if this party is worth...

are you a customer of Zeus or Server Centric? I'm curious as to where that invite originated from....and i'm even more curious about the party itself.....

Knowing Server Centric....It is sure to be a great party. Attendance is confirmed by e-mail.

Anyone know if this party is worth...

Bloggers:

This notice is being posted for anyone that has registered on-line using this invitation and is expecting to attend The Rock the House party that Zeus is co-hosting the week of September 15th.

This party is a private event, by invitation only, and was sent to customers and partners only. Unfortunately, someone outside of Zeus posted the invitation to this website, and we have many registrations as a result. This event was intended to be an intimate affair, in a small venue, and we can not accommodate the level of registrations we have received.

We have had to shut down our online invitation process, and will be sending out a subsequent invitation to those individuals we initially invited to this event.

We extend our sincerest apologies to anyone who registered for the event under these circumstances, and look forward to seeing you at our booth #959 at the show.

Sincerely,

Bob Barbour

Regional Marketing Director

Zeus Technology

Well I am not a customer so I guess I will miss the stellar party.

Come on guys you know better than to register for a party sent to a specific e-mail. Now if someone hands you a flyer then that is a different story. It's also Vegas so you don't have to party crash to find a good time...the city never sleeps, lol. Just look around...no you cannot hang out with me...well maybe, lol. Have fun!
