

Laptop bag?

tjcarst 21 posts since

Jun 26, 2008

When you check in at registration, do you get a bag for your laptop like at TechEd? Just trying to decide if I need to bring one.

mrehere 40 posts since

Jun 3, 2008 1. Re: Laptop bag? Sep 12, 2008 9:38 AM

Good question!

I will be forced to bring one to make the trip out, but more SWAG is always appreciated.

poonh 7 posts since

Sep 20, 2007 2. Re: Laptop bag? Sep 13, 2008 8:40 AM

Last year at VMworld 2007 San Francisco, we did get nice backpacks that you could slip a notebook into. Hopefully someone can authoritatively state whether there will be backpacks or not this year...I don't want to bring one only to end up with another one that has to be checked separately or stuffed into another piece of luggage.

tjcarst 21 posts since

Jun 26, 2008 3. Re: Laptop bag? Sep 13, 2008 8:46 AM

in response to: poonh

Laptop bag?

I usually stuff all the swag into my bag, dirty clothes, etc and put in a box and UPS back home on the last day so I don't have to check anything. 😊

poonh 7 posts since

Sep 20, 2007 4. Re: Laptop bag? Sep 13, 2008 10:53 AM

↑ in response to: tjcarst

Not a bad idea...although I'm from Canuckistan, so shipping a box home will not only take much longer, but might even cost more than paying the airline for a second checked item.

😞 Last year, two checked bags were allowed for free so I stuffed as much swag as I could into the backpack.

Brenton Hughes 19 posts since

Sep 10, 2007 5. Re: Laptop bag? Sep 13, 2008 11:41 AM

I haven't thought about mailing my dirty clothes home since college. Good idea though. The bag from last year was ok, but a little small for my Toshiba. I am sure there will be some sort of bag, but maybe a shopping cart would be better for holding all the swag. Looks to be alot this year, but why not with 14,000 people coming.