

Proper steps to test domain name...

jwinsett 1 posts since

Oct 1, 2008

We're getting ready to change our domain and have set up a test center. What they are wanting to do to test is create a virtual copy of our domain controllers and then rename to see if any gotchas come up. Our problem has been to get a vm created. I've read other posts that describe the process but wanted to know if anyone has a step by step process for it and any gotchas with this testing procedure.