

booking sessions

---

Tom Howarth 21 posts since

Mar 28, 2008

When will we be allows to book our session for VMworld Europe?

Erik Scholten 22 posts since

Dec 19, 2007 1. Re: booking sessions Feb 10, 2009 6:11 AM

Last year we could not book any sessions. Participation was on a first-come, first-served basis.

I have had only 1 session which I could not attend because of the crowd.

Tom Howarth 21 posts since

Mar 28, 2008 2. Re: booking sessions Feb 10, 2009 6:23 AM

👤 in response to: Erik Scholten

That should make for an interesting time 😊

booking sessions

Erik Scholten 22 posts since

Dec 19, 2007 3. Re: booking sessions Feb 10, 2009 7:35 AM

↑ in response to: Tom Howarth

Idd, virtual fights in the hallway, VMware personel trying to provide HA for the session and secret VMotions into the auditorium. 😂 😊

Tom Howarth 21 posts since

Mar 28, 2008 4. Re: booking sessions Feb 10, 2009 7:50 AM

↑ in response to: Erik Scholten

Interesting but does my state travel on the secret vMotion? the question has to be asked

Anne Jan Elsinga 4 posts since

Mar 13, 2008 5. Re: booking sessions Feb 10, 2009 7:58 AM

↑ in response to: Erik Scholten

I think I read somewhere that you can avoid the crowds 😊

Arrive about 5 to 10 minutes late for all breakout sessions. Chances are that you won't have to stand in line. Most of the time you can get a seat in the front row. People are scared to sit in the front row 😊

booking sessions

David Jenkins 2 posts since

Dec 17, 2008 6. Re: booking sessions Feb 10, 2009 9:22 AM

 in response to: Anne Jan Elsinga

Maybe they have DRS for the busy sessions to Vmotion everybody into a larger venue.

Tom Howarth 21 posts since

Mar 28, 2008 7. Re: booking sessions Feb 10, 2009 9:35 AM

 in response to: David Jenkins

That will only work for the same technology track, to jump tracks you would need EVM

Marcus Breiden 1 posts since

Sep 30, 2008 8. Re: booking sessions Feb 10, 2009 12:09 PM

sigh, just wondered about this... is it different in the US? or is it there the same..

I got already burned by one vendor needing years to move his european venue to almost the same level as the US one.

I guess I will know more next year but I think the sessions with new stuff will be quite packed.

booking sessions