Tony Dunn 261 posts since

Sep 10, 2007 So, you're heading to VMworld 2010 (Sand Francisco)...or still waiting to register.

You might be wondering -- who's the band at the party this year?

Reply to this thread with your guess (limit one guess per person). The first 2 people with the correct band name will each win a "Meet and Greet" the band pass to use during the VMworld party.

For more details and qualifications, please view the blog post.

cheers,

How about Jay-Z or Limp Bizkit! I'd really enjoy some salsa music, like Oscar D'Leon.

I hope the VMware employee band from last year plays, they were pretty good.

If past history is any indication of future performance, it's going to be a band that was popular in the 90's that hasn't done anything in awhile or a classic rock band of the 80's that's reuniting and about to release a new CD. 😊

I would have voted for the Steve Miller band but his CD is already out so he'll be too expensive. It would be really funny if it were the Lou Gramm band!

So I'm voting for Triumph, mostly on a whim.

While I hope it would be Air, Stereolab, MC Chris, MC Frontalot or Pizzicato Five getting back together (in the case of chris or front, nerdcore seems an oddly appropriate genre for us vm'ers).

My official vote goes for:

Depeche Mode

And since we get two votes, my second official vote goes for:

Sonic Youth

Either one of the two votes are well known (DM moreso), but unlike the classic rock style of foreigner, they may opt for something a little less mainstream - electronic dance (DM) or old school indie/college rock like SY.

What would be even more bad ass is that if VMworld were to commission the building of a Telharmonium specifically for this event. <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Telharmonium> but to quote wayne from wayne's world "Shaaa, and monkeys might fly outta my butt"

-the b-52's

-röyksopp (would be really cool if Erlend Øye was there to do vocals... double bonus point if they bring Karin Dreijer-Andersson of the knife, and fever ray for vocals as well)

-jefferson airplane (hey, we're in san francisco, and that's where this band got their storied start)

-vanilla ice (dude, seriously? no... i just had to ice this thread tho)

How about Uncle Kracker

Sticking with the D, Kid Rock?

or both?

Contest winners have been posted to the Who's the Band? Blog

Revisit the blog to see highlights of INXS and Elastic Sky.

Winners of "Meet the Band" passes are:

- William Fulmer
- Jordan Lederman
- Don Mann (alternate)

We will contact each of you with details for that event.

VMworld 2010 (San Francisco) - Who's...

Get set for a great night of music and fun at the VMworld 2010 Party with INXS and Elastic Sky. We will be posting more details of the party to VMworld.com, so stay tuned for that.
